

Corporate Finance

Small and large companies need capital to operate. Every investment decision is a decision where money must be used wisely to make the project profitable in the long term.

Today more than ever, companies are operating in a globalised and rapidly changing world. To adapt, companies need to gain access to appropriate financial resources for their global investments and operations.

A multinational textile factory would, for instance, need to buy a new machine for a newly established factory. In such case, a decision has to be made on how much money is needed, where the finances should come from and how it should be used and invested to fulfil this purpose.
